

6-1 Teaching Function

- The K3NR is provided with a teaching function that can set an actual measured value as a set value without any front panel key input. This function is useful for setting parameters while checking the operating status of the K3NR.
- The teaching function can be used to set the setting, prescaling values, and linear output range. The TEACH indicator will be lit if a parameter that can use the teaching function is displayed.